Pastor's Paragraphs

This week we meet with Roger Clapp, he was a representative in the Massachusetts legislature, 1652 – 1665. He wrote a lengthy charge to his sons, daughters, and grandchildren. I quote just the last five charges:

“Study to know your own hearts, to know the plague that is in them. There is a plague in every man's heart, the deadly plague of sin.”

“Come to the Lord Jesus Christ, the great Physician for help.”

“Watch over your hearts, your hands, your eyes, your ears, and your tongues. For sin will assault you in every part, by every sense.”

“Worship God in your families. Do not neglect family prayer morning and evening. And be sure to read some part of the Word of God every day in your families, in ordinary course.”

“And I lay it as a solemn charge that you pray to God in secret. Pray in secret, though you have not a closet or a door to shut. You may pray alone in the woods, as Christ did in the mountain. You may pray as you walk in the field, as Isaac did. When employed in business, you may lift up your hearts in prayer as Nehemiah did.”
